

If some fellows would stand on a dime they would remind us of the Woolworth stores—nothing over ten cents.

If it were not for parting, there would be no joy in meeting.

NEW YEAR 1923

Our cordial relations prompts us to extend to you a sincere wish for a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

AT THIS HAPPIEST OF TIMES WE PAUSE TO THANK YOU

Retrospecting, we feel it would be ungrateful not to thank every one of our friends for their patronage and the Good Will they have given us during the year 1922. Realizing many material accomplishments, this store cannot help being joyful for the appreciation shown by its patrons. May the New Year be one of unprecedented prosperity and success for all of us.

A VOTER AT 13

Col. Jim Mart's "Old-time Notes" contains the following regarding a well-known pioneer citizen of Paris: "Death, at Paris, aged 76, of Noah Spears, a native of Bourbon county. He developed so early in manly appearance, that at the age of thirteen he voted, being supposed to be a man. When a young man he traded produce to New Orleans, in flatboats, and walked back."

Our idea of a busy man is the Recording Angel taking notes of the actions of delegates to a convention.

The pressers, cleaners and renovators have small use for the man who never says "Dye."

CHRISTMAS AND 1923

May the sunshine of the Christmas cheer enter into your heart and dwell therein all the days of the New Year.

MRS. MAYME PARKER

Greetings

The Holiday Season affords an opportunity to express to you the pleasure we derive from the cordial relations existing between us.

I wish you and yours a Happy New Year filled with Peace and Prosperity.

A pretty Paris girl came storming out of a certain shoe store the other day. Curiosity got the better of me, and I asked the grinning clerk who stood at the counter, "What's the matter?" The clerk replied: "Well, old man, I've got revenge at last. That was a telephone girl, and when she got her shoes I got my revenge, for I gave her the wrong number, just like she's handed me many times."

The children were gathered around a towering Christmas tree in Paris, the other night, aglow with happiness, the tree aglow with tinsel, lights and ornaments, and old Santa Claus was just distributing presents. One of the assistants was attracted by the countenance of a street urchin, none too warmly clad, and not being able to place him as one of those expected to be present, she sought to draw him out, so asked him: "Are you glad you came, little fellow?" To which the youngster replied vociferously: "Hell, yes! Whatcher think I'm here fer." He got all he wanted in a hurry.

This bank of the Christmas spirit sends hearty Yuletide greetings to its depositors and friends. May the "back-log" in the fireplace keep life's fire burning brightly on that sacred holiday. The steady progress we have scored is, we think, good cause for our gratitude toward those who have not found their confidence in us misplaced. To them greetings. To those whose acquaintance we have yet to make, greetings also, and a cordial invitation to come in and enroll their names upon our books—books that stand for safety, service and a sincere desire to please.
